

Tips From Our National Partners

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN'S BUSINESS
CENTERS

Association of Women's Business Centers

Our projects require collaboration among multiple vendors and contractors from different time zones and geographic locations. What we're creating ultimately needs to be shared with the world. We're using Google Drive to ensure the team as well as our project stakeholders can access tools for small business at covid-sb.org anytime, anywhere.

SHAPING CITIES

International Downtown Association

Increase productivity by creating an inclusive culture. Commit to creating an environment where everyone can share and creatively brainstorm solutions. Include team building experiences through interactive games for your group online and informal discussions. Host virtual gatherings using Google Meet to build camaraderie and offer fireside or watercooler chats to increase productivity.

American Library Association

Start your journey at the library to get where you want to be faster and with credible resources. Your local library holds the keys to getting you to the next phase of your job seeking or business development journey. Need organize your job search? Want to develop a business plan or find out about local seed money? Need a mentor or coach? Your library has you covered. Check out your library website for free digital resources you'd normally have to pay for; ask a library worker for recommendations and referrals to help you build your network and set you on your way.
